

Survey: Effects of Residential Waste-to-Energy Incineration on Waste Diversion Attitudes

[This is the version sent via mail to a sample of Ontario residents and is for information only]

Instructions:

In all eight sections below, please indicate how well each statement describes your view. Please mark (☑ or ☒) ONE BOX ONLY per question. If you do not have a specific opinion please mark the middle box “neither agree nor disagree”.

Once you have completed this questionnaire please mail it in the pre-posted envelope provided.

Section A: Waste Diversion Behaviour and Beliefs

Waste diversion: comprised of a hierarchy of methods for using residential waste as a resource prior to final disposal and includes reduction/minimization, reuse, recycling, and composting. Further clarification of some aspects of this waste diversion hierarchy are as follows:

- Waste reduction/minimization: policies by governments or companies to reduce waste in their products, or consumer decisions that involve buying less or not buying at all.
- Reuse of items: using an item for a purpose other than its original intended use (e.g., making old clothes into cleaning rags), or reusing for the original intended purpose by someone else (e.g. donating clothing to Goodwill; selling second hand furniture etc.)
- Recycling: process of changing waste material into new products to prevent the waste of potentially useful material (e.g. recycling glass bottles for making new glass products)
- Composting: making food waste into compost to be used as plant fertilizer

Section B: Waste Facility Influence on Waste Diversion Behaviour

Waste-to-Energy (WTE) or Energy-from-Waste (EfW): the process of recovering energy from waste materials such as residential waste, which can then be harnessed to produce electricity and/or heat. This section focuses on incineration, and the one that follows focuses on landfill gas.

- Incineration: the thermal combustion of waste to reduce volume prior to landfilling (the ash, comprising 20-40% of the original volume of waste, is collected after incineration and landfilled)

If you knew that the material that you did not recycle or compost would be used to create energy in a waste-to-energy facility how would this affect your waste management behaviour?

| If I know my waste will be burned in a waste-to-energy incinerator to produce energy (e.g., electricity)... | | | | | |

| Please check ONE box per row: | | | | | |
| 19. I would put fewer paper products that are recyclable in the recycling bin (e.g., blue bin) | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 20. I would put fewer metal products that are recyclable in the recycling bin | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |

| 22. I would put less food waste that is compostable in the organic bin (e.g., green bin) | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> |

- Landfill gas for energy: a process of capturing and burning methane gas emitted from decomposing waste in landfills to produce energy (electricity and / or heat).

If you knew that your waste would be used to create electricity in a facility like this, how would this change your waste management behaviour?

| If I know my waste that ends up in landfills will be used to produce energy (e.g., electricity)... | | | | | |
